

as its initiation and the highest cognitive prerequisites conducive to gain wisdom (pāramī) as its ultimate attainment.

Hence, this PhD dissertation analytically reveals in the context of early Buddhist discourses and Theravāda teachings the internal and the external prerequisites or preconditions for the expedient initiation, pursuit and progress of Buddhist meditation.