

Science of the Total Environment

Volumes 139–140, 1 November 1993, Pages 139–142

Biological Environmental Specimen Banking

Development of new specimen bank projects

Implementation of specimen banking concepts in developing countries. First trial — Sri Lanka

Ranjith Jayasekera^a,

Matthias Rossbach^b

Available online 26 June 2003

Abstract

The necessity to establish a small scale Environmental Specimen Bank projects in tropical countries is stressed. An example from Sri Lanka demonstrates the needs, the benefits and the prospects of such an integrated research project.

Keywords

- environmental specimen banking;
- pollution monitoring;
- tropical countries;
- bioindicators